

Papillon Development Centre
Cnr. Mabel & Lily Streets,
Rosettenville 2190, Johannesburg.
Postal: POSTNET SUITE #42
Private Bag X1510 Glenvista 2058
Tel: +27 11 435 9799 / 0836174182
Fax: +27 086 610 2852
Email: info@papillonfoundation.com
www.papillonfoundation.com

transformation ... empowerment ... freedom

As seen on M.Net, S.A.B.C, E.TV and C.N.N International

3 March 2010

One NGO assists other N.G.O's

It is wonderful to see one NGO capacitating the staff of another NGO with accredited computer end user skills to improve their service delivery.

6 staff members that work at 3 of the Door of Hope homes for abandoned babies in Glenvista and Berea have successfully completed the popular E-Learner basic computer course at the Papillon Foundation in Rosettenville.

The Door of Hope management reflected an excellent attitude towards their work by sending their staff for professional training and their wisdom will surely be rewarded by a better performance of their staff due to the training.

It is very difficult for any NGO to function at optimum levels when the staff do not have the required skills to function at prime levels and as accurate computer work form an integral part of effective administration functions, the E-Learner course is an excellent vehicle for beginners to become computer literate. The E-Learner was designed to empower basically anyone with the required skills to operate a computer according to international standards and the course is also internationally accredited.

Papillon has thus far trained staff from several reputable N.G.O's such as City Year, TLC Aids Org. Nkosis Haven, Sparrows, Kiddies Paradise, Forest Town School for special needs children and now also Door of Hope.

“As the E-Learner course is run in a social outreach partnership, meaning that it is subsidised, we would seriously invite any other NGO in the South, or anyone else in the community, to think about up-skilling their staff, or themselves by coming to Papillon for the popular E-Learner course. Schools that do not have computer facilities or other organisations are also welcome to speak to us about computer training for their staff or students.” Says Stephen Smith of Papillon.

For more information contact Marian at 011-435-9799

“Excited staff members of the Door of Hope NGO in Glenvista, were presented with E-Learner certificates as evidence of their computer capabilities after successfully completing the course at Papillon.